On the Democratic ballot, six choices for President of the United States are listed: Edmond G. Brown Jr. (5); Bill Clinton (7); Tom Harkin (9); Bob Kerrey (11); Lyndon H. LaRouche Jr. (13); and Paul E. Tsongas (15); or Uncommitted (17).

Incumbent Democratic Fifth

District Congressman Gene Taylor declined to have his name listed on the primary ballot.

On the Republican slate, voters will find five choices for President, including: Patrick J. Buchanan (2); George Bush (4); Billy Joe Clegg (6); David Duke (8); and Tennie Rogers (10); or Uncommitted (12).

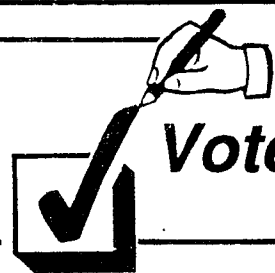

The Fifth District congressional race features candidates Will Bramlett (21); Paul Harvey (23); Billy Hewes (25); and Chris Roosa (27); or Uncommitted (29).

The second primary run-off will be Tuesday, March 31. Primary winners will meet independent candidates in the November 3 general election.

All in the game

The Mississippi Gaming Commission and Coast Crime Commission co-sponsored a round-table dockside gaming workshop Thursday in Harrison County. The workshop included gaming device demonstrations. Taylor omits name from Tuesday ballot

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Although he is seeking reelection, the name of U.S. Congressman Gene Taylor will not be found on Tuesday's Democratic primary election ballot.

According to Brian Martin, Taylor's congressional office manager, Taylor chose to remove his name to remain consistent with those counties where an unopposed candidate's name is automatically removed from primary ballots. Circuit Clerk Pam Metzler explained the decision is made by the various political parties, and that in Hancock County the choice is left to the candidate.

"Some candidates feel it saves money," she commented. "Although I don't see how."

Martin stated Taylor's decision had nothing to do with the

Bay Cove update

Bay bridge casino site "on back burner"

BY TRACI BONNEY
Although the Bay St. Louis City Council ostensibly met Wednesday to discuss needed ordinances setting gaming fees and taxes, the subject was never broached.

Instead, the Council received an update on the progress of Bay Cove Harbour's planned gaming development.

Project manager Len Krick, now representing Marlin Torguson as new owner of the site, briefed the Council on a recent meeting between officials from Mardi Gras Casino/Bay Cove Harbour and the State Gaming Commission.

He said Torguson, when asked pointblank, revealed to the Gaming Commission that the Mardi Gras Casino Bay bridge site will be developed, but "it is on the back burner right now."

Krick told the Council that Mardi Gras' plans for Bay Cove are more ambitious than those originally developed by Lambert Land Co. He said that while Lambert Land planned to start slowly, then develop more — a "crawl-walk-run" approach — Mardi Gras intends to skip the crawling stage and start the development at a walk.

Original plans called for a gaming vessel to be bought. However, Krick said the company has now purchased a large barge — "a very large barge," he emphasized — which is in Lake Charles being outfitted with its support structures. The unfinished barge will be transported to Bay Cove, where the casino will be built, he stated.

According to Krick's specific-cations, the casino itself will be 295 feet long and 74 feet wide.

Other figures Krick quoted project an initial workforce of 451 employees, which will grow to 531 employees by the third year. Projected payroll in the first year is $8.1 million; in the third year, $9.7 million.

He said the casino plans to start with 700 slot machines

For the record

Frilot praises administrative record keeping changes

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Mayor Stella Frilot told the Board of Aldermen Wednesday

changes in department record keeping under her administration deserve to be commended.

Mayor Stella Frilot hands plaque to Emile Henley

As each alderman was handed a copy of the city's 1991 financial report prepared by Moore and Powell CPA, Frilot cited the previous lack of recorded fixed assets; the lack of programs for maintenance, repair, replacement or augmentation of equipment; incomplete inventories; and lack of documentation on transferral of funds.

She added the development of accurate records will assist in proper fiscal planning along with available review of the city's financial status.

She concluded by saying, "Great improvements have taken place over the past 15 months...., but there is a great deal more to accomplish."

Ward 4 Alderman Stan Weidman requested the board be given time to review the financial report before voting to accept or not accept it.

Aldermen agreed to wait until the next city meeting to vote on the report.

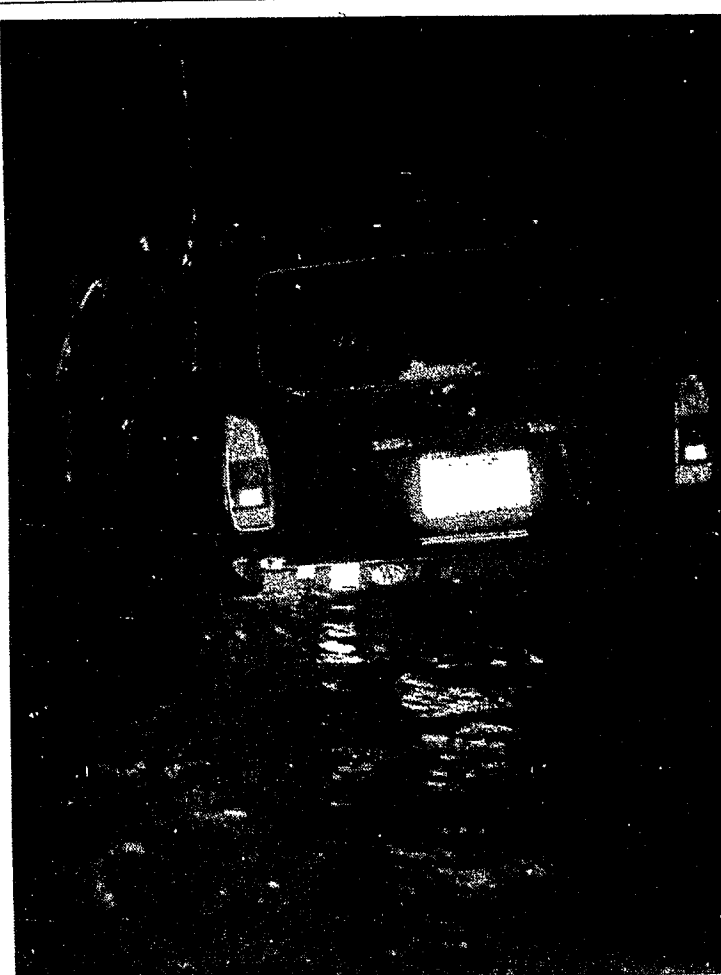

Following a presentation by resident Pat Jastram, who listed complaints concerning

This 1975 Toyota driven by Asa Hill, 23, Rt. 2, Box 731, Bay St. Louis, ended up in the Bay Wednesday night at the foot of the bridge, when he lost control of the vehicle, Bay Police Detective Kurt Raymond said. The officer reported Hill was traveling east on Highway 90, lost control of the car as he approached the bridge, and landed in the water. Hill was taken to Hancock Medical Center by Mobile Medic, where he was treated and released, Raymond said. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Biloxi man arrested after high speed chase

BY TRACI BONNEY
A failed sting operation and a high-speed chase Thursday led to the arrest of a Biloxi resident on drug-related charges, according to Glenn Strong.

Strong, director of the Hancock County Metro Narcotics

Task Force, said Travis L. McDonald, 22, of Biloxi, was arrested at around 11 a.m. and charged with possession of a controlled substance (LSD) with intent to distribute.

"We had a setup to buy LSD from him, with Agent Greg Martin, who represents Waveland on the task force, as the purchaser. McDonald refused to sell to Martin, and we tried to take McDonald down by blocking his vehicle.

"He took off, hitting my Oldsmobile and damaging it. We pursued him, and a high-speed chase followed west on Hwy. 90. He was apprehended on the service road just before Dunbar."

In addition to the possession with intent to distribute charge,

Walker: Gaming commission well within fiscal '92 budget

BY TRACI BONNEY

During a presentation to the Bay St. Louis City Council Wednesday, Len Krick of Bay Cove Harbour mentioned that the State Gaming Commission was out of its $300,000 budgeted fiscal year funds, according to commission officials.

Commission director Royal Walker said that isn't so. "We have enough money to make it through this year, to do the things we have to without running over our budget," he stated. "The money we have, I have paced it so we will not spend it before the end of the year. I have never run an operation that spend more than its budget, and I'm not about to start. I believe in living within the budget."

Walker said a misunderstanding may have developed because commission officials told Bay Cove officers that the commission's original funding request for fiscal year 1993, which will start July 1, was not sufficient. Walker said the commission has submitted a new request.

"We want to become a specially funded agency eventually," he said. "We think a flat fee on the slot machines and other gaming devices the casinos use will be the best way to do that."

City attorney Lucien Gex spoke prior to Jastram's presentation on the city's lack of legal authority over the franchised company.

He said, "The only way the city can cancel a franchise is if the company is not fulfilling its contract."

"I do not believe the complaints we are hearing are sufficient for a legal cancellation of the franchise."

The board gave Frilot approval to sign a change order on the current FMHA sewer and water extension project which will save approximately $3,000.

Frilot said, reviewing the price per foot for fence to surround the new city water well, the city could purchase the fence, including installation, independently at a savings.

In other business the board approved:

—payment of certification exam for the city's fire chief and building official/inspector;

—recommendations of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

City utilities superintendent Michael Barnes reported that GM&R Construction Company estimates job completion by April 1.

loss of the congressional franking privilege.

The franking privilege permits congressional offices free mailing. A congressional incumbent loses franking privilege for 60 days prior to an election when his name appears on a ballot.

Martin said Taylor's decision to omit his name from Tuesday's primary reflected no consideration of possible franking privilege loss.

He added the decision came from Taylor's campaign headquarters, not from his congressional office where mail has been restricted since January 10 to letter responding and notices of town meetings.

Martin concluded Taylor's name appeared two years ago on the ballot unopposed, "Just because he did not remove it."

A restaurant is expected to seat 250, while the planned lounge will seat 125. The site plans also call for about 100 recreational vehicle hookups and 450 parking spaces, not including employee parking.

Krick said the operation will be on a 24-hour basis. He projected 700,000 customers the first year of operation.

As for when the casino will be ready to open, Krick said it should be licensed by April, but probably won't be able to open its doors before August 1 because of several factors within the Gaming Commission.

He also mentioned to the Council that the access road built by Lambert Land Company to the development site will be able to handle the Bay Cove customer and employee traffic, but won't have the capacity for any more, such as that from Raintree Casino, whose proposed site is nearby.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

There will be a workshop on Thinking About Going Into Business on Tuesday, March 10, 1 to 5 p.m. at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce office.

The workshop will be conducted by Dianne Callender of the Small Business Development Center, Gulf Park College.

The workshop is designed to help people who may be thinking of going into some type of business venture for themselves.

Many people fail at business ventures because they do not investigate all of the possible pitfalls.

I would suggest anyone thinking about a venture on his own should attend.

For further information, call the chamber at 467-9048.

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Legislative Reception is scheduled in Jackson for Monday, March 16 at the Coliseum Ramada Inn from 6 to 8 p.m.

The chamber will be providing bus service for those wishing to attend at $35 per person round trip.

The bus is scheduled to leave at 2 p.m. from the chamber's office and return after the reception.

This would be a good time for residents to visit with their state senators and representatives on a one-on-one basis and chat about their concerns on issues and legislation for the 1992 term.

Chamber members and local business leaders are encouraged to attend.

The reception is being hosted by the Chambers of Commerce and Economic Development Agencies in Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties.

For bus reservations, call Bill Carlin at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Chamber, 863-2933.

I am hoping that Hancock County will have a good representative group go to Jackson for this special occasion.

The dream of every golfer, to make a hole-in-one, was accomplished by Bob Hamilton of Bay St. Louis last week at Pass Christian Isles Golf Club.

C.C. McDonald Jr. witnessed the feat and said Bob is on 'cloud nine' when someone mentions his hole-in-one. Word is that he has been trying to achieve this feat for more years than he will tell.

Well anyway, congratulations, Bob.

FROM THE MISSISSIPPI SENATE

By Senator Vic Franckiewicz

Senate bill addresses cost of workman's comp

The Senate has approved a constitutional amendment limiting the Lieutenant Governor to two successive terms in office. The vote was 39-9 in favor of the measure. After a few days of procedural maneuvering, the amendment will be sent to the House of Representatives for consideration. If the House passes it, you will be able to vote on the measure in November.

The other major Senate action last week was the Workers' Compensation bill. The Senate passed sweeping amendments to the current laws protecting employees from the financial loss of on-the-job injuries. The bill is an attempt to control the skyrocketing cost of workers' comp coverage. As it stands now, the legislation has good and bad points, and it will be heavily debated as the session progresses.

The Senate passed a bill which would abolish the Board of Human Services and provide for the appointment of an executive director of the agency. The measure would transfer all policy-making functions of this agency to the office of the governor. The law would be reviewed in 1994 to determine if the new system is working. The Senate also passed a bill to create a Children's Trust Fund Commission, designed to help communities set up child abuse prevention programs.

Lieutenant Governor Briggs and House Speaker Ford are considering ways to end the legislative session early as a means of cutting costs during the current budget crisis. Ending the session one week early would save taxpayers $65,740 in per-diem expenses. This year's session is scheduled to last until May 10. Most sessions last 90 days; however, in the first year of each four-year term the session is extended for an additional 35 days.

Many important bills are still in committee. Two such bills would raise the minimum age to license drivers from 15 to 16. Also in committee are proposals to reduce the size of the legislature and to put chancery and circuit clerks on a salary system, and to establish initiative and referendum.

McCoy steers education program through crisis

Public school forces would do well not to start bashing the ideas of Rep. Billy McCoy, the House Education Committee chairman, for steering the Minimum Foundation education program through its worse fiscal crisis since its creation almost 40 years ago.

Of course, McCoy unnerved education progressives to no end last week when he pushed through the House a one-year moratorium on funding a special enrichment program for academic and intellectually gifted students which was slated to begin next fall.

But, the Prentiss County lawmaker said, the talented and gifted program had to be sacrificed to protect the "heart" of public education—the Minimum Foundation Program—which provides the basic state funding for the teachers' salary schedule, student transportation and school supplies.

The Minimum program has taken a $40 million hit this fiscal year—$20 million of it as a result of the 1991 Legislature's shell game which switched the money to cover last year's deficit, and another $20 million cut recently by Gov. Fordice because of the current revenue shortfall.

And if the proposed Legislative Budget Office recommendations are followed, the Minimum program will be underfunded another $34 million in next year's budget.

Remember, this is the Minimum program. It does not provide for any teacher salary schedule increases. Significantly, the Legislature has not raised the teacher salary base since 1989.

McCoy has launched what he calls a "prioritizing" of all public school expenditures, including cutting administration costs in the State Department of Education, in a carefully calculated move to convince legislative fiscal leaders that the public education budget will be as "trim and lean" as it can be made.

"When we can show we have done everything we can do to make efficient use of every dollar, then we can go to the Legislature and ask for additional money for the Minimum Foundation program," McCoy declared.

The Prentiss County lawmaker estimated that after slimming down the education budget under his prioritizing there would still be a $15-$16 million gap between what the program needs and the amount proposed by the Legislative Budget Office.

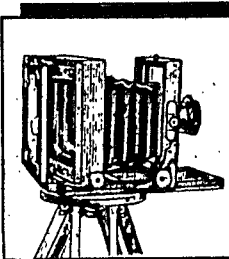

McCoy believes his plan would be much less threatening to the stability of the public school system than one proposed in the Senate by Lt. Gov. Eddie Briggs and Sen. Ronnie Musgrove to institute teacher furloughs, salary cuts and shortened school years in the event of Minimum Program cuts.

"In the short run, our job is to make sure for next year our children and parents won't have to be concerned that the Minimum Program will be funded," he declared.

McCoy admits his proposal is only a continuation budget for one year and he is looking ahead to better days. What education needs, he emphasizes, is long range planning to provide a stable source of revenue to assure increased outlay for buses, buildings, books and better teacher pay.

"We need to do for education what we have done for highways, to develop a stable, sound source of funding," he said. This, he agreed, would mean dedicating tax revenues to public education, something the Legislature has historically declined to do.

If he and Rep. John Pennebaker, of New Albany, were able to develop the highway financing plan for the $1.6 billion four lane program passed in 1987, McCoy said, "I think the same

Act revisions not enough: Bourgeois

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Education Stabilization Act of 1992 proposal emerged from Senate committee Wednesday with substantial changes and language, removing some of the harshness of the original plan.

Aside from revising the proposed reduction of 20 days from the school year to only five, Senate Bill No. 2926 now includes language which permits each district to act according to its own judgement on the need for reductions.

A summary of Sections 1-5 of Senate Bill 2926 states, "...any school district may, in its discretion, operate the schools of such district for not less than 175 days in the event that less funds are provided...than needed...State Department of Education shall not reduce the minimum program allotment...because of failure to operate...for 180 days."

Another change the committee made to the proposal was in the increase of the student-teacher ratio.

The bill, again at the discretion of the school district, may increase each class by one student rather than the six and seven students originally suggested.

Proposals for an increase in transportation entitlement to two miles from the present one mile, and authorization for one year early retirement (24 years instead of 25 years) by teachers and administrators, has been deleted by the committee.

The bill includes proposals for optional employment of teacher assistants with no reduction in allotment for unfilled positions; delay of the gifted program for one year; a date change on teacher and administrative nonreemployment notification, May 15 from the previous April 8; permission to reduce teacher and administrative salaries proportional to any reduction in school days; proportional use of 16th Section Land funds for operation and maintenance of schools; use of minimum program funds for expenses incurred in the previous fiscal year.

The bill also permits suspension of accreditation standards set either by board policy or statute where affected by minimum education program reductions. Excluded from the suspension are: in-service training for certified personnel; participation in the School Executive Management Institute; AIM reports; school dropout reports; and student standardized testing.

Under Senate Bill 2926, permission to use up to 50 percent of annual textbook allotments for district expenditures was an addition not previously included in the bill proposal.

As of Friday, Senator Vic Frankiewicz reported no further action had been taken on the new bill.

Hancock County Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois stated, "I'm still not in support of the present version. It is time for our legislators to wake up and meet their obligations and fund education, now."

"Education has had the ax too many times. We, as educators, are not going to sit and let this happen again. We will not let our children be the losers."

"I'm urging parent, business leaders, community leader and all organizations to join hands with us and fight for the right of the children. We are asking for the people of Mississippi to get in contact with your legislators."

A DIFFERENT VIEW

By Traci Bonney

Could someone please explain Super Tuesday to me? Jacqui and I got into a discussion (with several cents' worth of comments from Tony Monti) at work recently about the whole presidential election process.

I had to dredge up information stored in a back corner of my mind just to try to explain the process to Jacqui, and I didn't do too well. Tony definitely has a better grip on this than I do.

Actually, this is my first presidential election as a registered voter.

Four years ago, when George Bush was elected, I was old enough to vote, but was still in my tent-dweller mode. That year and the year before, I moved so often I just never got around to registering.

So, all this delegate/electoral college/popular vote stuff is a bit confusing to me. The last time I recall being taught anything about it was in 1976, during the Ford/Carter election. I was in middle school at the time—hardly qualified to be a voter.

I understand that when I vote Tuesday, I'm not actually voting for the president, but making it known whom I want the delegates to vote for at the national conventions. I also understand that when I vote in November, my vote will again be not for the president, but to let the electoral college know for whom I want them to vote.

I know as well that my vote will be counted in the popular vote, but that vote won't necessarily determine who the next president will be.

Sounds like I have a pretty good handle on it, huh?

Well, here's the part I don't understand. Why, in the information age where you can know more than you ever conceived of wondering about by the flick of a switch or touch of a button, are we still using a presidential election system that originated in a time where a working television would have been considered evil magic, and its owner killed as a witch?

So, if I missed something in my summary of the presidential election process, someone please let me know. It's bad enough that the only real information most of us have on the candidates is what they and their opponents want us to hear; we should at least understand how the next guy is going to get into office.

So, don't forget to vote Tuesday; your vote does count. It lets the folks at the conventions know who you want in charge of this place for the next four years.

can be done for education... I'm real excited about it."

I remember another McCoy over 40 years ago who was chairman of the same House Education Committee. And I remember a monumental occasion in 1948 when that McCoy had the temerity, actually the courage, to bring out on the House floor a bill to establish a minimum salary schedule for teachers.

Hardly had he called up the bill when a crafty segregationist lawmaker fired a question at him: "Under this bill would

'Nigra' teachers be paid the same as white teachers?"

"Well, yes, it would include all teachers," McCoy replied, naively.

Before you could say twenty-three skiddoo, the bill was whisked off the floor into the eternal graveyard the Legislature in those days reserved for such proposterous ideas.

That McCoy was Rep. Elmer McCoy, father of Billy. In another week Elmer will celebrate his 90th birthday at his home in Booneville.

Friends of Charles B. Murphy Elementary 'Drive for Education' at Gerry Lane Motors

Charles B. Murphy Elementary has the opportunity this week to receive free Apple computers, Magnavox audio-visual equipment or Compton's Encyclopedias from Gerry Lane Motors in Bay St. Louis.

Note: The original date of March 2 through 7 was in error and the correct dates are March 9 through 14. Parents or friends of Charles B. Murphy who test drove March 2-7 will get credit for the school's drive.

"Driving for Education" is a program designed to address the growing need for more computers and related educational tools in elementary and secondary schools, said A.C. Adam, Gerry Lane general manager.

According to Charles B. Murphy Elementary principal Clementine Williams, the school's goal is to receive computers. CBME parents and friends are encouraged to visit Gerry Lane and test drive a vehicle March 9 through 14. When a predetermined number of "proof of drive" certificates are tallied, the school may select equipment from five different award levels.

There is no limit to the amount of free awards a school may receive.

Gerry Lane is one of a number of Chevrolet/Geo dealerships nationwide offering the "Driving for Education" program. The program is open to all public, private and parochial schools in the Gerry Lane service area. (Advertisement)

LIVE THE LEGEND!

On April 24th, American shipmaster Captain Joshua Slocum embarked from the port of Boston, Massachusetts in his 36' sloop the Spray, a converted oyster boat. On June 27th, 1898, he dropped anchor at Newport, Rhode Island to become the first man to single-handedly circumnavigate the world. Captain Slocum and the Spray were lost in a gale off Martha's Vineyard on November 14, 1909.

In Bay St. Louis, everybody is familiar with the dog ordinance which was framed and approved by the present administration. It was thought the ordinance would rid the city of its curs running all over the streets.

There still is a large number of dogs running wild without licenses. The Echo and the community wants to know whose job it is to enforce the ordinance.

The city must do one or the other - see that the ordinance is enforced or money refunded those whom were made to pay.

The Sea Coast Echo is there.

Miramar parades on Mardi Gras

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Miramar residents celebrated Mardi Gras in the true spirit of the second-line. Wheelchairs were decorated with the traditional purple, green and gold. Each resident donned handmade masks of colorful glitter and feathers. There were two floats; one a disguised gurney and the other an elaborately covered cart. The Miramar staff, from administration to housekeeping, was called into place behind each waiting participant. "Oh, yea it's Carnival time..." began to be blared over the P.A. system and the Krewe of Miramar took to the halls. As the parade rounded the turns, residents unable to join in watched from their rooms. The passing paraders bombarded every waving hand with the trinkets of the season. The staff rocked and rolled along with the residents until they finally wound back to the starting point of the community room, where king cake and drinks were served to the exhilarated Krewe.

THANK GOD FOR WHAT YOU HAVE BEFORE YOU ASK FOR MORE

There are many ways of saying our prayers, according to our faith and our personal style of doing things, and most of them are acceptable; as long as we are sincere and don't turn the prayer into a "shopping list" of unnecessary material things. We should begin by thanking God for all the blessings He has already granted us, including every day of our lives. Then we should pray for the health and well-being of our loved ones and friends, for the sick and the bereaved, for the cure of disease, for world peace and harmony, and for freedom and friendly cooperation among all nations. Beyond that, let us remember that God will grant only the requests that are right for us, because in His infinite wisdom He knows what is best, far better than we do.

Prayer is the opening of the heart to God as to a friend
— E. G. White

We know not what we should pray for as we ought

Diamondhead boaters host annual boat parade

Special to the Echo
On a beautiful, sunny Saturday, February 29, 12 ships sailed into the Diamondhead Yacht Club Marina to honor our 1992 Royalty, King Akua Kai XVIII LeRoy E. "Bud" Barnes and his Queen M'Lis "Missy" Marshall. Theme of the parade was "Americana," and a crowd of some 2,000 enjoyed the show.

First to arrive was the royal barge "Sea Nile" bearing the king and queen and captained by Bob Jacobs and Ed Nicholson. The king and queen were escorted to the yacht club balcony to view the parade and air show. They were toasted by vice commodore Bob Calvey and secretary Bernice Turner of the Boaters Association.

Next to arrive were 50/50 as a "Mississippi River Boat" Capt. Andy Ewing; Stressless "Tribute to American Music, America's King, Elvis" Capt. Don Marshall; Jamie V. "Mardi Gras Party Boat" Capt. Emil Veverica;

Pride II "Back Yard Bar-B-Q" Capt. Dick Alves, At Ease "Mardi Gras Party Boat" Capt. Mike Doherty; Barcalvella "Tribute to American Theater" Capt. Curtis Stout;

Alligator "Jean Lafitte and the Pirates" Capt. Jean Wallet; Stormy Petrol "Good Old Uncle Sam" Capt. Hester Plauche; Shirley Belle "America's Star, Mickey Mouse" Capt. Cecil Boyd; and Menke "Ellis Island" Capt. John Wise.

All the boats in the parade had their individual musical theme music provided by Incantation. The parade was narrated by Dave Settle.

Following the parade of boats was an air show narrated and coordinated by Andy Ewing. Three sky divers jumped from 3,800 feet landing on target and being picked up by "Don't Worry, Be Happy" captained by Tim Holt. A bi-plane smoked read, white and blue smoke rings around the sky divers and did aerial acrobatics. The American flag was unfurled at 2,000 feet.

Following the boat parade and air show, a party was held in the yacht club, with food, refreshments and dancing to the music of Bo and Dee.

Commodore Don Marshall was the prime coordinator for these events. Jack Willson and John Wise coordinated the boats and Andy Ewing the air show. Recognition was given to Koko Kennedy for making signs, Dolphin Press for posters and flyers, Manny Gendusa, Ben Doss, Tim Holt and Sid LeBlanc for distributing the posters; Bob Jacobs and Ed Nicholson for making and installing the Mardi Gras flags on Pier 3 and Lee Fredian for handling publicity.

This Ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the 1st day of April, 1992.

Adopted this 24th day of February, 1992.

American Legion Unit 139

American Legion Post 139 will celebrate the Legion's 73rd birthday and the post's 69th on March 13.

Bay St. Louis Post 139 was formed just four years after the birth of the American Legion at a caucus of the first American Expeditionary Force, March 15-17, 1919, in Paris, France. This caucus was the result of a proposal previously offered by Lt. Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. to a group of representatives of A.E.F. divisions and service units. Roosevelt called to order the subsequent caucus in the United States, May 8-10, 1919, in St. Louis, Mo.

The American Legion has grown to over 3,000,000 members from World War I, World War II, Korea, Vietnam and Desert Storm, with 1,000,000 Auxiliary members. The Bay St. Louis Post has 700 Legion and Auxiliary members, making it one of the largest posts on the Gulf Coast.

The ideals of the Legion and its Auxiliary are today translated into seven basic objectives taken from the Preamble of the Legion's constitution. The objectives are: veterans affairs and rehabilitation; children and youth, Americanism, national security, foreign relations, legislative and economics.

A dinner and birthday party will start at 6:30 p.m. March 13 at Post 139 in the main hall. All veterans are invited. For more details, call 467-7100.

Ready your vehicle

Routine maintenance saves dollars in long run

Motorists, beware: Summer's heat, dust and stop-and-go traffic will take their toll on your vehicle. Add the effects of last winter, and you could be poised for a breakdown.

You can lessen the odds of mechanical failure through periodic maintenance. Your vehicle should last longer, too—up to 50 percent longer, according to the non-profit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE).

ASE, which tests and certifies the competence of Automotive technicians, presents the following car care tips as a public service. Some are easy to do, others require a skilled auto technician.

- Air conditioning. A marginally operating system will fail in hot weather. Have the system examined by a technician who is ASE-certified in air conditioning repair and service.

- Cooling system. The greatest cause of summer breakdowns is overheating. The cooling system should be completely flushed and refilled about every 24 months.

The level, condition, and concentration of the coolant should be checked periodically. (A 50/50 mix of anti-freeze and water is usually recommended.)

Do-it-yourselfers, wait until the engine has cooled before removing the radiator cap! The tightness and condition of drive belts, clamps and hoses should be checked by a pro.

- Oil. Change your oil and oil filter as specified in your manual—more often (every 3,000 miles) if you make frequent short jaunts, extended trips with lots of luggage, or tow a trailer.

- Engine performance. Replace other filters (air, fuel, PCV, etc.) as recommended—more often in dusty conditions. Have engine problems (hard starts, rough idling, diminished power, etc.) corrected at a good shop with modern testing equipment and ASE-certified technicians.

- Windshield wipers. A dirty windshield causes eye fatigue and can pose a safety hazard. Replace worn blades and keep plenty of windshield washer solvent on hand.

- Tires. Have your tires rotated about every 5,000 miles. Check tire pressures once a month; let the tires "cool down" first. Don't forget to check your spare, and be sure the jack is in good condition.

Examine each tire for tread life, uneven wearing, and cupping; check the sidewalls for cuts and nicks. An alignment is warranted if there's uneven tread wear or if your vehicle "pulls."

- Brakes. Brakes should be inspected as recommended in your manual, or sooner if you notice pulsations, grabbing, noises, or longer stopping distance. Minor brake problems should be corrected promptly.

- Emergencies. Carry some basic tools. Ask a technician for suggestions. Also include a first aid kit, flares and a flashlight. Consider buying a CB radio or car phone.

Overheating problems

Check cooling system, engine for leaks

When a cooling system fails, the engine overheats. And when a car overheats for very long, metal engine parts can be seriously damaged and require expensive repair.

Overheating can result when the coolant level is too low or when there is a leak in the system. Sometimes just driving in stop-and-go traffic on a hot summer day with the air conditioner running is enough to overheat the engine.

Coolant loss

A low coolant level leads to overheating because there isn't enough fluid in the system to absorb engine heat.

The air in the system that is absorbing these high temperatures is a poor heat conductor and won't do an effective job of transferring the heat to the radiator.

Cars with coolant recovery tanks have markings on the white plastic tank indicating where coolant levels should be when the car is running and when it's not. If the coolant level is low after repeated fillings, you probably have a leak in the system.

Coolant hose leaks

Hoses are the most likely source of leaks because they are structurally the weakest components of the cooling system.

Hoses must be flexible to absorb vibration, so they are made of rubber compounds. Rubber, unfortunately, is not as durable as metal.

Intense engine heat can harden and crack even the best rubber; oil can soften and swell it; the simple passage of time can break down its internal bonding; and electrochemical degradation can crack the tube.

In many instances, hose leaks occur at faulty connections to the inlet and outlet pipes. Make certain the hose clamps are secure.

When replacing a hose, it's also a good idea to replace the clamps. Traditional worm-drive clamps or the new constant tension clamps are best.

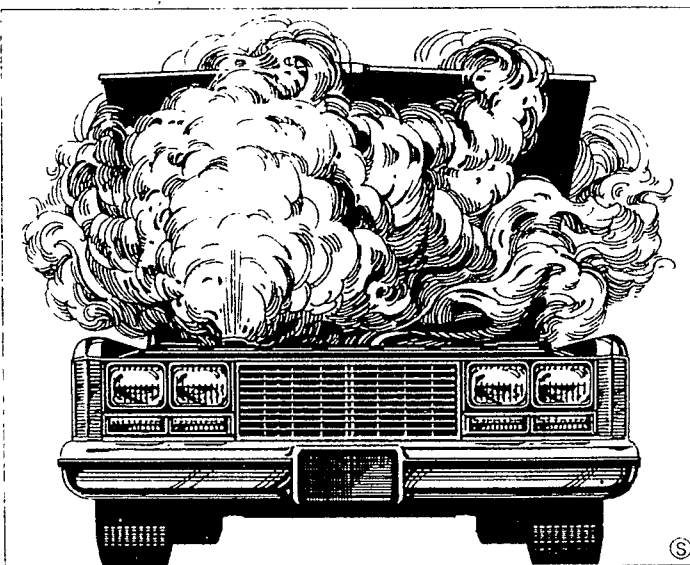

To extend the service life of a hose, keep it away from damaging external elements such as hot manifolds, oil-leaking parts and sharp edges. In these situations, protect the hose with a sleeve.

You should also avoid using the soluble oils found in some coolants, under the assumption they lubricate the water pump.

Most modern antifreeze solutions contain all the lubricants a water pump needs. Soluble oil only serves to destroy a hose before its time.

All cooling system hoses should be inspected every six months. Most often, the upper radiator hose and the curved bypass hose will fail without warning. But, eventually they all will need to be replaced.

Cooling system hoses should be replaced roughly every four years.

Water pump leaks

It is common to find an occasional drop of coolant under the water pump. Excessive leaking, however, indicates a problem. Housing bolts on the pump should be tight. If they are, and leaking persists, the pump's inner seal is probably damaged and the pump must be replaced.

Radiator leaks

Radiator leaks are often just the result of a loose petcock or plug. Simple tightening should correct this.

The inner seal on the radiator cap should be checked periodically. If the seal is cracked, or the metal parts are rusted, coolant will escape and the cap will fail to pressurize the remaining coolant adequately.

While stains on the radiator point to a more serious problem.

These stains result from coolant reacting with the metal parts.

Pouring a liquid sealant in the radiator might solve the problem, but chances are good that the radiator needs to be repaired or replaced. This is frequently the case with many of today's aluminum radiators.

Heater leaks

Leaks can occur in the heater control valve or in the heater core. A liquid sealant can some-

Proper auto care takes heat off summer driving

The last thing any motorist wants during the hot summer months is to be stranded on the road because his or her car has broken down. However, problems such as this can be easily avoided if proper, year round, maintenance is practiced.

It is often difficult to foresee when your car needs attention, but the following tips focus on some of the aspects of automotive maintenance that may require your attention.

times help but, more often than not, the heating system units will have to be replaced.

Engine leaks

Leaks can occur on the engine block wherever there is a bolted housing, such as at the thermostat or water pump housing.

You should also inspect the block's drain plugs and core plugs (also known as freeze plugs). Core plugs are holes left in the engine when it is cast and later covered by metal discs. If these discs loosen or corrode, coolant can escape from the block.

If leaking continues after you've checked all the hoses, clamp connections and metal components of the cooling system, the leak is probably internal.

This situation can be confirmed by the presence of engine oil in the coolant, in the exhaust system, or transmission fluid. A visually inspected sample of the coolant will reveal the presence of oil. In both the latter situations, however, sophisticated test instruments will help make this determination.

In all cases, internal leaks can be the result of blown head gaskets, cracked heads or blocks, and loose or damaged head bolts. Usually, major engine repair is required.

Cut repair costs with tips from the experts

Keeping your car looking good and running well can be expensive. It's not just major repairs that cost so much to fix, it's the minor ones that can turn your car into a money pit—and sometimes it seems that the weather, other drivers, even the birds and bees are conspiring to dent, ding and damage our vehicles.

But, these new tips can help prevent a lot of unnecessary wear and tear and keep your car looking good longer. Remember: it's a jungle out there, and we need all the help we can get.

• Watch your back. According to experts, a third brake light decreases chances of being rear-ended by 50 percent. Make sure yours is working properly.

• Little "dings" mean a lot. Those dents, dings and scratches caused by someone opening a car door into yours are annoying and unsightly—and they can lead to bigger problems: they retain moisture and that can lead to severe rust damage.

You can avoid the problem with impact-resistant door guards. They slip into place instantly and can't be removed until you unlock the door—and they'll protect your car from careless door openers?

• The sky is falling. When parking your car in the winter, gish or smokes, have it checked by a professional.

—Make sure the cooling system is performing properly and check the antifreeze level.

—Check the tire pressure and tread.

—Check the oil. It's not just a lubricant, it also serves as an engine coolant.

—Is your car's transmission noisy, or does it slip when you shift gears? If so, have it checked as soon as possible, since transmission repairs can become costly.

—Check the hoses and belts for signs of wear. If a hose or belt fails, it can radically effect a vital part of the motor.

—Have the brakes checked if they are making any noise or are not performing as well as they should.

—Replace the windshield wipers if they are streaking or smearing.

Keeping your car in good condition with periodic checkups can increase its lifetime as well as its resale value. Money spent now on maintenance may well save you money down the road on repairs.

If you have a front-wheel drive car, you'll also get a clunking sound if you have a looseness in a CV joint (like a universal joint that connects the front

—The sound of ticking in the engine usually is a valve lifter, generally heard when the engine is idling.

—A sudden screech from under the hood could be a worn or loose drive belt.

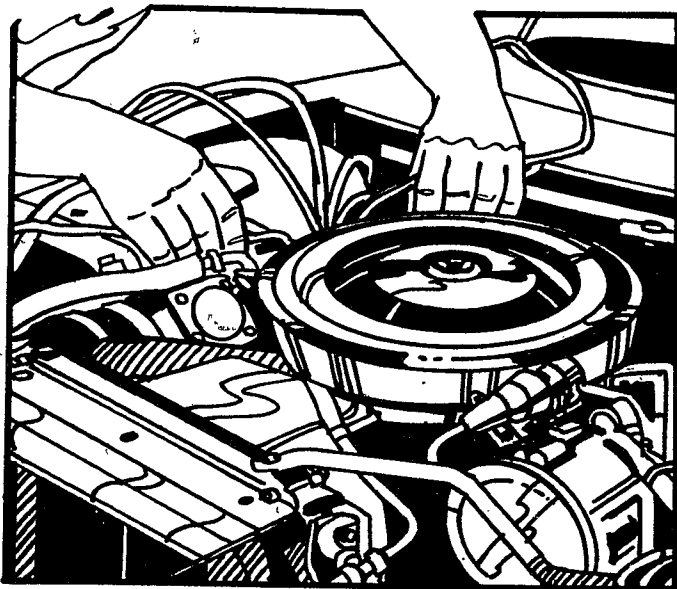

—A knocking or pinging from under the hood when you accelerate could be from low grade gasoline, incorrect timing or other tune-up adjustments.

—A whining sound as you move from a standstill to normal driving speed could be coming from the transmission and could mean that you are low on transmission fluid. You probably won't hear this sound when the car is idling or in neutral.

—A spitting sound or rumble from somewhere under the car could be an exhaust leak. This is a potentially dangerous situation, due to poisonous exhaust fumes that could seep into the car.

You turn on the ignition switch and hear a clicking sound, but the starter does nothing, your battery may need charging or replacing. It also could be loose or corroded connections. The clicking comes from the starter solenoid, which isn't getting enough voltage to engage the starter.

Check tire inflation for better fuel maintenance

It's quick, it's easy, it's free and, best of all, even the home mechanic who's all thumbs can do it.

The "it" is checking the pressure in your car's tires, something you should be doing on a regular basis.

Air is still free at many service stations and inexpensive tire gauges are even available in supermarkets.

Improper tire inflation takes its toll of tires through uneven wear and, in some cases, accidents.

In addition to forcing you to replace tires more frequently, an underinflated tire creates more rolling resistance. More simply put, it means that your car burns more gasoline trying to push itself along on underinflated tires.

Telling figures

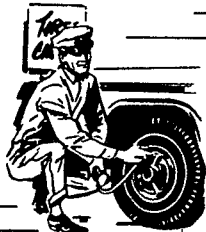

Estimates show that a tire underinflated by only five pounds of air increases fuel consumption by as much as seven percent, according to one industry source.

Check tire pressure in morning

Recommended pressures normally apply to cold tires, meaning that you should check your tire pressures early in the morning, before you begin your drive.

If underinflating a tire is bad, what about overinflation? The answer is that putting too much air in your tires is not advisable because, like underinflation, this can also cause tires to wear prematurely, decrease ride comfort, alter your car's handling performance, and reduce the tires' contact patch, that small square of your tire in contact with the road's surface at a given moment.

How do you know if your car's tires need more or less air? One way is that an underinflated tire will often show wear on the outer surfaces of the tread.

An overinflated tire will show wear by the smoothing of the tread in the middle of the tire, but your best bet is keeping a tire gauge in your car and taking readings regularly.

Replace tires as necessary

By federal law, all tires sold in this country must incorporate wear indicators in the form of smooth, treadless strips running across the width of the tire, which become visible as the tire's tread reaches the point that indicates the tire should be replaced.

avoid overhanging eaves and trees. Icicles may thaw and fall, seriously denting your car.

• Give convertible tops the brush off. Use a soft dust mop to remove dust from your convertible top—the long handle means you won't have to stretch and strain. Don't let leaves or debris build up in the well where the top folds down—or you'll end up with a mildew problem that's almost impossible to get rid of.

• Bumper sticker blues. Is your bumper sticker still telling the world that you liked Ike? To remove old bumper stickers, turn your hair dryer on "hot" and let the stream of warm air soften the adhesive until you can peel it off.

You can also try saturating the sticker with liquid detergent or a petroleum-based solvent. Wait for it to soften, and remove with a plastic ice scraper.

Trees can be a problem in the spring and summer, too, because tree sap and bird droppings can permanently discolor your paint. Remove them immediately with a little cooking oil on a soft cloth, then rinse off with tepid water.

• Clearing the air. Instead of expensive scented air fresheners, keep a box of baking soda in your glove compartment. It eliminates odors and has lots of other uses.

Use a little sprinkle to soak up fresh stains on upholstery and in the ashtray to douse burning cigarette butts, or mix with three parts water and use the paste to clean your windshield, remove salt deposits from paint, and corrosion from battery terminals.

Brakes need maintenance

Brake failure is the leading cause of motor accidents due to mechanical deficiencies. The vast majority of these failures can be traced to neglected maintenance. Car Care Council offers this basic information to help owners better understand their vehicles' braking systems.

When you step on the brake pedal, you create friction that resists the wheels from turning. Eventually, friction causes the brake parts to wear out and require replacement. You can make your brakes wear better and keep repair costs down by using good driving habits.

When you stop, let the vehicle slow gradually instead of stopping suddenly. Never ride the brakes on long hills.

For maintenance, check the fluid level in the master cylinder once a month, and add heavy duty brake fluid if the level is low.

Be aware of the symptoms of brake trouble and seek the advice of a qualified technician when brakes act erratically. You cannot put a price tag on the security of knowing you have a good braking system under foot.

Do it yourself

YEAR-OLD WIPER BLADES DUE FOR A CHANGE

Good visibility during inclement weather requires fresh, flexible wiper blades. If the ones on your car are about to celebrate their first birthday, they are probably due for a change, says Car Care Council.

And here's a tip: When you do replace the old wiper blades with new ones, regular cleaning with a mild detergent of the wiping edge can increase their efficiency... and their life.
